

Why does hair loss occur?

The chief cause of AGA is dihydrotestosterone (DHT). The enzyme 5-alpha-reductase converts testosterone into DHT which binds to the male hormone receptor found in the dermal papilla cells, thereby disrupting the hair cycle and gradually shortening the anagen phase. As a result, the hair falls out before it becomes thick and fully developed. This leads to an observable decrease of the hair density.

Treatment for Androgenetic Alopecia

The breakthrough hair loss solution!

Genetics, unhealthy lifestyles, aging, and stress are considered to be among the causes of hair loss. It often affects those who are in their 30s and 40s and progresses as one ages. It was said that it is difficult to stop its progress. There are many hair loss treatments that have been developed in the modern times. Among the main treatments are finasteride (as oral treatment) and minoxidil (as topical treatment) for hair growth, as well as multivitamins for hair health. The use of these treatments in combination has become a common treatment approach among doctors.

3 High grade and well balanced active ingredients

Well-balanced and easily absorbable active ingredients are used, hence the product is expected to deliver faster results than the regular medicinal products.

1 Finasteride

Suppresses the progress of AGA

As a 5-alpha-reductase inhibitor, it suppresses the progress of AGA and helps normalize the hair cycle.

2 Minoxidil

Improves blood circulation in the scalp

Originally used as a vasodilator, minoxidil was the only ingredient approved by the FDA as a topical hair grow medicine. It promotes hair growth by improving blood circulation in the scalp and the dispersion of the necessary hair grow active ingredients.

3 Amino acids, etc.

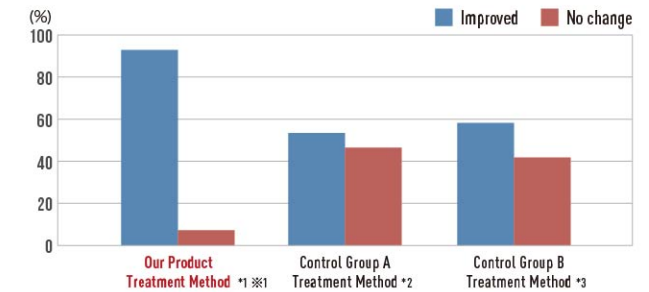

Necessary ingredients for hair growth

Vitamins, amino acids, minerals, etc. (tablets)
Combination of necessary ingredients for hair growth

High hair growth record

Double blind randomized comparative trial

This comparative study was conducted on Japanese healthy adult males with symptoms of AGA, aged 35-55 years old. Our product treatment method was compared to two other hair grow treatment methods. The statistical analysis of the survey responses from the subjects after the 6-month test indicated that those in our product treatment test group experienced a significantly different, much higher hair growth compared to those in the other groups.
